DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1,2 and 5-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schwarzmman in view of Clinch (art provided in PCT prior art search).

Claim 1, 7, 9, 11: A method for coding live images in microscopy, comprising the following steps:

- a) recording a first complete image (25,) that depicts a portion of a microscopic preparation (See Schwarzmman column 4 lines 56-57)
- b) generating a first coded complete image (200) in a coding element (21); (See Schwarzman column 4 lines 58-59)
- d) outputting the first coded complete image (251); (See Schwarzmman column 4 lines 61-63)
- e) recording a second complete image (252) that is offset with respect to the preceding complete image in a plane defined by an X-Y stage (12); (See Schwarzmman figure 3 as well as column 9 lines 5-11)
- f) transferring the coordinates of the portion of the second complete image (252), and further control data, to a control data decoder (30); (See column 11 lines 23-30)
- g) generating at least one coded partial image utilizing the data from the control data decoder (30); (See column 9 lines 12-19)
- h) generating an assembled and coded complete image (210) in an image assembler (32), using the at least one coded partial image (220) and the preceding coded complete image located in the buffer memory (27); (See column 9 lines 27-33)

Art Unit: 2613

i) outputting a second assembled and coded complete image (210), the assembled and coded complete image (210) also being additionally stored in the buffer memory (27);

(See column 9 lines 15-19) and

j) recording further images, steps f) through i) being repeated for each further image.

(See Schwarzmans column 10 lines 3-12)

c) storing the first coded complete image in a buffer memory (27) (While Schwarzmans is not specific as to the intricacies of his buffering of image data, at the time the invention was made it was well known to those of ordinary skill in the art that once an image is captured it must be buffered in order to further process the image. See Clinch column 4 lines 11-20. Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, to buffer image data motivated by the fact that it must be buffered for further processing.)

Claim 2, 8: The method as defined in Claim 1, characterized in that a coded partial image (220) is output at a second output (222) of the coder (21). See Schwarzman figure 1 items 3 and 4 showing a first and second output.

Claim 5. The method as defined in Claim 1, characterized in that coded complete images (200, 210) are transmitted to a remote station, a decoded complete image being generated at the remote station. (See Schwarzmans column 5 lines 13-19)

Claim 6, 10. The method as defined in Claim 5, characterized in that at least one coded partial image is transmitted to the remote station, an assembled decoded complete image being generated at the remote station. (See Schwarzmans column 9 lines 4-33 clearly any image necessary for the montage must be transmitted to the remote station for viewing.)

Art Unit: 2613

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 3 and 4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The three separate outputs one for the complete coded image, one for the assembled image and one for the partial image was not found in a prior art search nor considered obvious by the Examiner.
